We use information from reading a book or from what we already know to draw conclusions about something. For example, in the fairy tale of Goldilocks and the Three Bears, Goldilocks entered the Bears' house without being invited in. We know that this is not the right thing to do. We can use Goldilocks's actions, plus what we already know, to draw the conclusion that she was rude or bad mannered.

Ms Sarah fell in the playground. Ms Jessica ran to Ms Sarah and asked her if she was hurt. Then Ms Jessica took her to the nurse.
What conclusion can you draw from what you read above?
